Press release

Wet and windy weather set to return next week

19 January 2001

Release number 454

Met Office forecasters are predicting a return to wet and windy weather next week but not before some snow brings the current wintry spell to an end.

The wintry spell saw temperatures fall as low as Minus 14°C on Tuesday night at Altnaharra in the north of Scotland. However, Atlantic weather systems will edge across the country this weekend to bring less cold weather by the early part of next week.

Clive Brimacombe, Chief Forecaster at the Met Office, said: "We are confident that next week will see a change to much more unsettled weather. It will be wet and windy at times but, before that happens, don't be surprised to see further snow for a while over the weekend."

Notes:

For further information:
Met Office Press Office +44 (0)1392 886655

Met Office Customer Centre 0870 900 0100
If you're outside the UK +44 (0)1392 885680

PRINTABLE VERSION

About
Met Office
Hadley Centre
Terms and conditions
Advertise on our site

News
News release archive
Media Centre

Learn
About the weather
From the bookshelf

Services

Mobile text forecasts
Weathercall
Marinecall
Mountain weather
MetWEB
Talk to a forecaster

Links
Met Office data users
National met. services
Scientific interest sites
EA Floodline
Directgov
Freedom of Information

Contact
Contact us
Questions answered

© Crown copyright